

Inti students at leadership camp

IT'S an eye-opener!

That was how the 60 participants of the recent Inti Educational Leadership Training Camp felt after their involvement in the three-day, three-night camp.

Themed "Leadership, Opportunity and Experience", this inaugural camp organised by the Inti Foundation was held at Inti's main campus in Bandar Baru Nilai, Negri Sembilan.

It was aimed at instilling leadership qualities in the student participants, aged between 13 and 18 years, in areas like event organising, effective management and professional ethics.

Among the topics of discussions was "Expect to Surpass Yourself", which saw four speakers sharing stories of their personal struggles and sacrifices made to achieve their dreams.

For Tung Hon Ming, 16, of Sekolah Menengah Seafield, Subang, it was inspiring to listen to the personal testimonies. "Their real life experiences have made me re-evaluate my purpose and my goals in life," he said.

Tung was later picked as the best male camper, while the best female camper was Cherrish Lim, also 16, of SMK Kompleks

Inti College president Tan Yew Sing told the participants that it was important for leaders to possess personal charisma and the right attitude in dealing with his or her team.

"A right attitude is about showing humility, simplicity and integrity, and it is the key to successful leadership," said Tan, who also advised the campers to be prepared to face any uncertainties that should come their way and to be bold in taking risks. - By JESWANT KAUR
